For much the same reasons why so many cricket clubs have chosen the resort for their training: the outstanding quality of the pitches and practice facilities, first-class golf, spa and tennis, swimming, fitness, mountain biking, a tantalising selection of restaurants, a dazzling array of nightlife, a choice of luxury accommodation and, perhaps most importantly, an ideal Mediterranean climate that makes it possible to train outdoors in the sunshine all year round.

Every cricket club that chooses La Manga Club for training will benefit from the personalised coordination services of our highly experienced Groups department, who will attend to your every need before and throughout your stay.

La Manga Club is one of the world's finest all-round sports and leisure resorts, located in Murcia on sunny south-eastern Spain's Costa Cálida, or 'warm coast', under three hours from most European cities.

No matter what time of year you choose to visit, there are plenty of things to keep you entertained and busy, always with the assurance of five-star facilities and service. You will find a seemingly endless variety of activities: golf, tennis, spa, swimming, fitness, squash, paddle tennis, cricket, professional football, lawn balls, pitch & putt, crazy golf, mountain biking, jogging and walking routes, beach, water sports, horse riding, go-karting, cultural tours, shopping, over 20 restaurants and bars, lively nightlife...

La Manga Club offers two distinct types of deluxe accommodation: the refinement of the five-star Hotel La Manga Club Príncipe Felipe and superb four-star self-catering accommodation at Las Lomas Village.

Add first-rate conference and meetings facilities and you have the ideal venue for conferences, incentives and sports training camps. Without a doubt, this is the perfect Mediterranean destination for sport-lovers, for couples, for children, for family holidays, for groups of friends, for corporate groups, for everyone...

Come to La Manga Club and experience it for yourself!

All this makes La Manga Club the best place both for cricket tours and tournaments.

WestonWilliamson

Weston Williamson was established in 1985 and has completed a wide variety of projects, both at home and abroad, comprising both new and reused buildings of various sizes.

Recent projects include the Jubilee Line Station at London Bridge and the New England Biolabs building in Boston.

Our work in architecture and urban design is influenced strongly by thinking through the materials and details at an early stage. We believe the best architecture comes from a consideration of all the elements that form a building: the structure, the services, the quality of light, the expression of the form, the relationship of the building to its context and - of increasing importance - its global significance in energy consumption.

We are currently working on exciting transport projects, urban design, residential and mixed-use projects in the UK and overseas.

Many of these are featured on our website (www.westonwilliamson.com). If you would like further details please contact us at team@westonwilliamson.com.
